ID Faculty Candidate Lecture
“Tick Talk: A Spirochete’s Journey”

Naomi Hauser, MD
Fellow, Infectious Diseases,
University of Maryland, Baltimore, MD

Thursday, October 17, 2019
11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.
COM-T Room 6120

Dr. Hauser is from Upstate New York and went to college at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., where she studied Philosophy and Chemistry. She went on to study Environmental and Occupational Public Health at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia, where she worked in a zoonotic parasitology lab. She attended medical school at St George's University in Grenada in the West Indies and completed her internal medicine residency at Roger Williams Medical Center in Providence, Rhode Island. Currently Dr. Hauser is an infectious disease fellow at the University of Maryland Medical Center in Baltimore, Maryland. Most of her research involves vector-borne infections.

This University of Arizona event is sponsored by the Division of Infectious Diseases, Department of Medicine, UA College of Medicine - Tucson. It is open to the public, particularly community physicians and other interested health-care professionals.